Hello,

As the insurance company has not yet arrived to a decision and the authorities are pushing to remove the vessel I have a salvage company that will salvage the boat and keep it for a month in a secure place. I do not have the funds to pay cash.

As you can see in their draft document they ask the ownership to be transferred to them.

Please let me know ASAP if that is acceptable to the insurance company. If not, advice what should be my next steps.

Thank you,

Martin

Shaun,
Thanks, it has some changes that I just want my lawyer to check. Also, I think it should read "leaving" instead of "living" in the second paragraph under "Concept of contract".
Also if the boat can't be removed in one piece there should be an explanation why, then how it will be cut up attaching pictures during the process.
Otherwise it looks ok.
Thanks,
Martin
